

one asked. The directions are clear and they work, every time. It is the same with the gospel.

Speak the Gospel Clearly

It is important that those who understand the gospel speak it plainly and straightforwardly to each other and to unbelievers. This is the only way for the message to be communicated clearly.

Jesus Christ accomplished everything needed to save my soul from the penalty of my sins when he graciously shed his death blood on the cross and resurrected unto eternal life. There is nothing else I need to do but to be able to understand it enough to express it plainly and completely.

Find more free resources at:
www.graceambassadors.com

one asked. The directions are clear and they work, every time. It is the same with the gospel.

Speak the Gospel Clearly

It is important that those who understand the gospel speak it plainly and straightforwardly to each other and to unbelievers. This is the only way for the message to be communicated clearly.

Jesus Christ accomplished everything needed to save my soul from the penalty of my sins when he graciously shed his death blood on the cross and resurrected unto eternal life. There is nothing else I need to do but to be able to understand it enough to express it plainly and completely.

Find more free resources at:
www.graceambassadors.com

Why do Christians Hide the Gospel?

If we believe the religious polls then we should believe the vast majority of Americans are saved. However, it is very hard to tell these days. It seems that it has become common practice to invent new and religious ways to count heads without actually evaluating salvation.

It is common to hear these vague and insufficient salvation testimonies: "I've been born again"; "I know Jesus"; "I love God"; "I go to church"; or "I've accepted Jesus". How does merely knowing Jesus obtain salva-

Why do Christians Hide the Gospel?

If we believe the religious polls then we should believe the vast majority of Americans are saved. However, it is very hard to tell these days. It seems that it has become common practice to invent new and religious ways to count heads without actually evaluating salvation.

It is common to hear these vague and insufficient salvation testimonies: "I've been born again"; "I know Jesus"; "I love God"; "I go to church"; or "I've accepted Jesus". How does merely knowing Jesus obtain salvation? (James 2:19) It seems “loving God” and “going to church” are things we must do, but our good works cannot save us (Titus 3:5). You can see the problems with these statements if they are the only message of salvation expressed.

It is most important to discern (judge) the clarity of the gospel. As ambassadors of God’s grace gospel we are tasked with communicating a message upon which people’s souls rest. If that message is not being delivered or received successfully it will be the greatest communication failure in someone’s life.

This is not an issue to be lazy with or to cut corners. Better to be sure that the message is understood than to justify a weak testimony as covering up someone’s ignorance of the gospel. People cannot believe what they do not hear (Rom 10:17). People do not understand what they cannot communicate. If you can’t communicate the gospel, then you don’t know it.

If someone’s testimony is merely a verbal claim on Christianity (“I’m a Christian”) then that person may die not knowing the gospel

tion? (James 2:19) It seems “loving God” and “going to church” are things we must do, but our good works cannot save us (Titus 3:5). You can see the problems with these statements if they are the only message of salvation expressed.

It is most important to discern (judge) the clarity of the gospel. As ambassadors of God’s grace gospel we are tasked with communicating a message upon which people’s souls rest. If that message is not being delivered or received successfully it will be the greatest communication failure in someone’s life.

This is not an issue to be lazy with or to cut corners. Better to be sure that the message is understood than to justify a weak testimony as covering up someone’s ignorance of the gospel. People cannot believe what they do not hear (Rom 10:17). People do not understand what they cannot communicate. If you can’t communicate the gospel, then you don’t know it.

If someone’s testimony is merely a verbal claim on Christianity (“I’m a Christian”) then that person may die not knowing the gospel of the grace of God which has more to do with the cross than religious affiliation. Christians need to present the gospel more perfectly.

An Example

At one occasion I was traveling to a wedding, but did not know the directions. As a friend approached me about the way to the wedding it would’ve been extremely unhelpful and dangerous to merely say: “Just trust the map”; “Try to drive the best you can and you’ll make it”; “Just be a bride follower”; “Oh, don’t worry if your late, the groom loves you!”

Which map do I trust? How will my effort at driving take me the right direction? Bride follower, how? The groom’s love does not help me get to the wedding.

A clear guide would say something like, “turn right at 2nd street, go 5 miles, pull into the parking lot on the left.” They would not refuse steps just because the directions took a few more seconds to explain. Neither would they change the directions just as not to appear to say the same thing every time some-of the grace of God which has more to do with the cross than religious affiliation. Christians need to present the gospel more perfectly.

An Example

At one occasion I was traveling to a wedding, but did not know the directions. As a friend approached me about the way to the wedding it would’ve been extremely unhelpful and dangerous to merely say: “Just trust the map”; “Try to drive the best you can and you’ll make it”; “Just be a bride follower”; “Oh, don’t worry if your late, the groom loves you!”

Which map do I trust? How will my effort at driving take me the right direction? Bride follower, how? The groom’s love does not help me get to the wedding.

A clear guide would say something like, “turn right at 2nd street, go 5 miles, pull into the parking lot on the left.” They would not refuse steps just because the directions took a few more seconds to explain. Neither would they change the directions just as not to appear to say the same thing every time some-